The PACT DSS

The PACT project proceeds with analysing the main factors that affect public assessment of the security and privacy implications of a given security technology

The PACT DSS is a tool for assessing the impact of future security technology investments and deployments in terms of privacy, ethics, social acceptance and public perception.

The PACT DSS is context-specific and it is based on the three contexts specified in the PACT survey, namely Travel, Healthcare and the Internet. However, it is modular and extensible

User Requirements

The main functionality of the PACT DSS is to provide an impact assessment that is context-sensitive and flexible in its definition

The PACT DSS should be easy-to-use and non-confusing to the user

The PACT DSS should allow the user to provide feedback in every stage of its use, while showing fault-tolerant behaviour towards the user and ensuring the reliability of the presented data

3

The User Layer

1. Convenience and accessibility
2. No installation and maintenance effort
3. Interoperability
4. Cost-effective
5. User Training

The Paedophile Hunter: the psychology of vigilantism

There is – and has always been – a paradox at the heart of vigilantism. Participants regard themselves as standing up for a mainstream moral code
